

“Rooms are meant to comfort you, cosset you.”

The lobby of a boutique hotel was inspired by the contrasting individualistic styles of Albert Hadley and David Hicks. From their use of chinoiserie and herringbone flooring to modern furniture, abstract paintings, and shades of one color this area consists of modern seating and a bar with certain traditional elements. It is a contemporary space inspired by traditional ones. These bold interiors with hints of gold creates an inviting, friendly, and a playful space. It's breaking Hick's typical formula by adding some of Hadley's.
